Graduate Diploma of Strategic Leadership

NATIONALLY RECOGNISED
TRAINING

BSB80215 - Graduate Diploma of Strategic Leadership

This qualification is available via Recognition of Prior Learning (RPL) for those with a significant level of leadership and management responsibility and/or complexity in an enterprise.

The CLET BSB80215 Graduate Diploma of Strategic Leadership is a powerful qualification offered by CLET via Recognition of Prior Learning (RPL) for people who can provide evidence to show they have applied advanced knowledge and skills in a strategic leadership and management role.

RPL at this level rewards those who have made autonomous decisions and used initiative and judgement to plan and implement a range of leadership and management functions in a variety of contexts and who have held positions of responsibility and accountability for personal outputs and for the work or function of others.

The recognition of prior learning process conducted by CLET assessors will search for evidence of the ability to use cognitive and creative skills to review, critically analyse, consolidate and synthesise knowledge, in order to generate ideas and provide solutions to complex problems. The RPL assessment process will need applicants to demonstrate the use of communication skills to support an understanding of theoretical concepts and the ability to transfer knowledge and ideas to others.

For those from the military, police, emergency services, Federal, State, Territory and Local Government agencies and many security organisations suitable to apply for this qualification via RPL, CLET have compiled comprehensive evidence guides to assist the recognition of the most suitable personnel from these organisations, without the need for you to provide confidential and classified information to be successful.

What about Recognition of Prior Learning (RPL)?

Recognition of prior learning is available on this qualification.

After reading the information provided on this qualification page, if you then decide to apply to have your knowledge and skills recognised towards this and/or other qualifications, you may click on the RPL Assessment button and complete the application form to commence the process.

Click on the following headings to learn more about the CLET recognition of prior learning (RPL) process.

Who is eligible to apply for RPL?

CLET specialises in providing recognition of prior learning (RPL) to people who are current or former police, military, emergency services, nursing and all other government at all levels. WHY? Because that is where our workplace knowledge, experience and education is focused and current.

RPL assessment is obligation free

The RPL assessment process is 'free of charge' and 'obligation free'. You only pay the RPL fee if you wish to be awarded with your qualification/s and receive the certificate/s after the assessment process is complete and you are advised of the result. We do this in recognition of the impeccable work you have done for our community.

When RPL form is submitted

After you complete the RPL Assessment form, evidence to support your knowledge and skills is required. When this is received, CLET staff will commence the initial review of your experience against the criteria of one or more qualifications. On the application form you may elect the qualification/s you wish to be assessed against or ask for a general assessment.

1. The more evidence you provide that is relevant against the qualification/s criteria you wish to be assessed against, the easier it is for CLET staff to be confident you possess the knowledge and skills required.
2. If required, a competency conversation may be conducted over the phone
